

ABSTRACT

The present invention is directed to a ceiling panel for use in a suspended ceiling system. The ceiling panel includes a main frame and at least two crossing members within said main frame. A facing material is adhered to the main frame and crossing members.